

From the Editor

Dear readers,

I am proud to present a new issue of the Journal of Information and Organizational Sciences containing 11 original scientific papers and one preliminary communication. In this issue, we are publishing papers by 33 authors from Africa, Asia, and Europe, covering topics from management to machine translation, from bibliometric research to cryptography.

I am sure that a wide diapason of topics we are bringing can satisfy the interests of all our readers, and that you will enjoy reading this issue of our Journal.
